Library Asks for Parish Residents Input

Natchitoches, LA, June 26, 2020 – The Natchitoches Parish Library (NPL) is calling on parish residents to help develop its next five-year strategic plan. This plan will help the Library Board of Directors and NPL administration steer the future of the library system to the public's interest. The survey is simple and short, takes only a few minutes, and is accessible online or at any library circulation desk.

The NPL wants to know what community members think is essential for their library system and any barriers people might have in utilizing the library. The survey is also a place to request a service that the NPL could make available. Survey responses will also influence the materials that the NPL circulates, giving insight into the future development of the library's catalog.

To give your input to your local library's future, visit natlib.org and click on the Community Survey banner or visit either branch location.
